

Do you love brass?

They modestly call themselves "little guys" (lat. salaputia), but they are a couple of sly old dogs. Because nothing is too difficult for the young virtuosos of Salaputia Brass!

Salaputia Brass has wowed audiences in numerous concerts, including several times at the Hamburg Elbphilharmonie, the Schleswig-Holstein Music Festival, the Mecklenburg-Vorpommern Festival, the Brass Festival Meran, the Mozartfest Würzburg, the Festival Internacional de Música da Póvoa de Varzim in Porto, in Luxembourg and as a guest on the ARTE TV programme "Stars von morgen". With their themed programmes, they manage the balancing act between the highest musical standards and entertaining listening experiences for everyone.

The ensemble's emphasis lies in the expansion of the brass literature and in the desire to move new brass music into the spotlight of classical concert life. Peter Dörpinghaus excels as a creative composer and arranger, penning exciting thematic programmes such as "Bond, Beatles and other Brits", "Paris, Paris", "Fire Songs" and "For your Eyes only" (film music). In addition to their performances as Salaputia Brass, the brass players hold various solo positions in German top orchestras (Konzerthausorchester Berlin, Gewandhausorchester Leipzig, Sinfonieorchester des Bayerischen Rundfunks, Bamberger Symphoniker, Philharmonisches Staatsorchester Hamburg).

Salaputia Brass has performed at the Bachfest Stuttgart, the Heidelberger Frühling, the Klosterkonzerte Maulbronn, the Schleswig-Holstein Musik Festival, the Mozartfest in Würzburg, the Rheingau Musikfestival, the Brass Festival in Meran and at performances in the Tonhalle Düsseldorf, the Kölner Philharmonie and the Elbphilharmonie.

Recent releases of "Roots" and "Hungarian Pictures" by OehmsClassic follow three earlier CD recordings by Audite.
