

Biography | September 2025

Anna Naomi Schultsz, born in Basel, was introduced to the violin at the tender age of two by her mother Isabelle Ladewig. In 2010, she began her studies in Amsterdam under Prof. Coosje Wijzenbeek and was simultaneously taught by Françoise Zöldy in Basel. Anna Schultsz was also holder of the international Scholarship from the music academy in Liechtenstein, where she participated in its intensive weeks. Later she was taught by Barbara Doll at the music academy in Basel. In the year 2018, Anna Schultsz was accepted as a junior student by Prof. Julia Fischer in Munich, who has remained her teacher to this day.

In 2013, she won first prize at the Swiss Young Musicians' duo competition in the violin category. At the international music competition Laupersdorf she won first prize with distinction and maximum points. In Belgium, at the Concours International Arthur Gurmiaux pour jeunes violonistes in 2016 she received second prize. In 2018 she won first prize at the Dutch violin competition. In 2020, she reached the third place at the Davina van Wely-competition. In 2022, Anna Schultsz won the public voting Jeunes Etoiles of the renowned Gstaad Menuhin Festival. Since 2023, she has been holder of the Scholarship awarded by the Mozart Gesellschaft Dortmund. In 2024, she received the Förderpreis from the Sparkasse Dortmund. Also, she will receive the rare cultural award from the Van Claver Stiftung Riehen.

Her first performance as a soloist with an orchestra was at the age of nine in Basel. Further public appearances followed: in 2015 at the well-known Prinsengrachtfestival in Amsterdam, in 2016 at the Basler Martinskirche with Bruch's Violin Concerto, in 2019 she played Saint-Saëns' 3rd Violin Concerto, followed in 2020-2022 by the concertos of Tchaikovsky, Sibelius and Chausson and several appearances on Swiss radio and television as a "Young Talent." She was nominated for the "Opus Klassik" award for her first CD, titled "Mouvements."

Since 2019, she has been concertmaster of the Gstaad Festival youth orchestra. She received further artistic inspirations at the Master course from Leonidas Kavakos as well as Raphaël Oleg and Heinz Holliger. Furthermore, she plaid chamber music with Gérard Wyss (first CD), Oliver Schnyder, Jan Schultsz, Julia Fischer, and Nils Mönkemeyer. She frequently collaborates with the pianists Chiara Opalio and Denis Linnik. In the 25/26 season, she will be a guest on an extensive tour with the Bodensee Philharmonic Orchestra, give concerts with the Rheinische Philharmonie and perform Beethoven's Violin Concerto in Switzerland.

From the age of four, Anna also received recorder instructions by Margret Föppl and Kathrin Bopp at the Schola Cantorum Basiliensis. At the age of seven, she won first prize with distinction at the Swiss Youth Music competition in the recorder category.

Anna Schultsz plays a violin from Carlo Giuseppe Testore da Milano, build in the year 1690, on loan from the Music and Youth Foundation Chur.
